

Hello,

My name is Emily Bashton and I am your Midwest Veterinary Supply Representative. Midwest is a nationwide, family owned veterinary distributor celebrating over 55 years in the business. Dedication to service and a focus on profitability are a few ways our company can support your continued success.

My passion for animals was cultivated in 4-H and Pony Club. I graduated from Virginia Tech with a B.S. in Animal Science with an emphasis in Agricultural Economics. After college I worked in a small animal hospital for a year before beginning school to become a Licensed Veterinary Technician. Joining an equine referral hospital, I worked as a Lead Technician and anesthetist for nine years. Later in my career I spent five years with the feed division of a regional cooperative, partnering with a nutritionist to support dairy and beef farmers.

I am very excited to be with Midwest Veterinary Supply and eager to apply my business and industry knowledge to make a difference in your practice. Please don't hesitate to let me know how I can help your practice grow!

Sincerely,

Emily Bashton
